Promoting Inclusive Development in Fragile States

Seth D. Kaplan, Johns Hopkins University, USA

“Kaplan explains how hard-working individuals are shackled to their poverty, how discrimination stifles the entrepreneurial hopes of entire groups of people, and how political and economic exclusion conspire to keep elites rich at everyone else’s expense... It is, he says, up to the elites and leaders of the developing world to start building and operating this machinery...” – Jerry Rawlings, Former President of the Republic of Ghana

“A welcome relief from the avalanche of microstudies with narrow approach and applicability... It is refreshing to see a multidisciplinary approach and one that references works from a wide variety of academic, think tank, practitioner, and official sources.”

The China Development Model

Between the State and the Market

Dominique de Rambures, Université Paris I Panthéon-Sorbonne, France

Over the last thirty years, China has been reforming its economy at breakneck speed. However a surge in nationalism is threatening China’s relations with its neighbours and its rise to regional leadership. This book addresses a wide range of factors influencing the development of China’s model and its influence on the rest of the world.

The Contribution of Human Capital Towards Economic Growth in China

John Joshua, Deakin University, Japan

The Contribution of Human Capital Towards Economic Growth in China develops a human capital model to explain transformational growth within different stages of economic development, which will induce technological changes and consequently will require a change in human capital. China is a case study in transition and can provide useful lessons to other emerging economies.

Development Policy in Africa

Mastering the Future?

George Kararach, The African Development Bank

This book offers an important contribution to current debates about the economic development of African countries. It offers insightful analyses that will be of interest to students, scholars and policymakers in the region. - Alfredo Saad Filho, University of London, UK

‘George Kararach’s book is a most welcome addition to the literature on African development policy. This will be an invaluable source book for public servants both domestic and international, for development consultants and researchers, for postgraduate research students, for postgraduate and undergraduate students of international development, as well as for general readers interested in African development.’ - Michael Tribe, University of Strathclyde, UK.

The author investigates the agenda for transformation in contemporary African development studies: policy studies, strategic studies, international relations and economic diplomacy. With a focus on the capacity dimension, he proposes critical policy and action-oriented recommendations on how to overcome present and future emergencies in Africa.

Economic Growth in Developing Countries
Structural Transformation, Manufacturing and Transport Infrastructure

M.L. Lakhera, Graduate School of Business and Administration, NCR (Noida), India

Economic growth across countries during the last 30 years or so has displayed 'dual' divergence between developed and developing countries, and among developing countries. The structural transformation has been either slow or of an anomalous nature. The study addresses these and suggests how they can catch-up with developed world.

The Energy Economy
Practical Insight to Public Policy and Current Affairs

David J. Robinson, The Ohio State University and the Montrose Group, USA

"Robinson's text embraces the notion that competitive, reliable, safe and diverse energy helped make the United States a global manufacturing power; it provides a guide to retaining and strengthening this advantage by building a regional energy sector to drive innovation that is of the utmost importance to every state and city and to our overall economic development competitiveness." - Kenny McDonald, President, Columbus 2020, USA

"America is enjoying the 'Age of Energy' as regions and states are growing through energy development in ways not seen in over 100 years. Robinson's The Energy Economy captures how communities big and small are utilizing an energy-led economic development strategy to foster economic success." - Michael C. Carroll, Regional Development, Bowling Green State University, USA

The Energy Economy offers practical and topical discussions about the most important economic issue of current times: energy.

The Economy of Bangladesh
A Quarter Century of Development

Azizur Rahman Khan, University of California, Riverside, USA

In the quarter century since its emergence from military rule and integration into the global economy, Bangladesh's economy has achieved high growth, reduced aid dependence and made remarkable improvement in social indicators while at the same time it continues to suffer from increasing inequality.

This book analyses these successes and failures.

Fusion Economics

How Pragmatism is Changing the World

Laurence J. Brahm, Professional, China

"Fusion Economics is an extraordinary interweaving of personal experience and far-sighted economic and ecological thinking which may very well hold the key to China's future." - John Simpson, Word Affairs Editor, BBC News

"Brahm is a rare combination of world class economist and hands-on entrepreneur. A down-to-earth pragmatist, he has been economic advisor to major Asian heads of government. Fusion Economics will contribute greatly to revitalizing sagging economies." - John Naisbitt, author of Megatrends

The current international financial system has created a huge gap between the wealthy and the rest. Grounded and straightforward in his approach, Brahm calls for a turn away from economic systems dangerously steeped in ideology and stymied by politics, outlining a new global consensus based on pragmatism, common sense, and grass-roots realities.

Globalization, Culture, and Development

The UNESCO Convention on Cultural Diversity

Edited by Christiana De Beukelaer, Queen Margaret University, UK, Miikka Pyykkönen, University of Jyväskylä, Finland, J P Singh, Mason University, USA

'The contributions in this excellently edited and well-balanced collection help foreground and analyze the essential issues and stakes of the often very complex relationships between local, regional, national, international and world culture, from a cultural-political point of view.' - Jan Baetens, University of Leuven, Belgium

'By focusing on the impact of the UNESCO Convention, this important collection offers valuable insights on the challenges of translating the contested, but widely used, concepts of culture and diversity into public policy and action, and pathways for making those links more effective.' - Vijayendra Rao, The World Bank

This edited collection outlines the accomplishments, shortcomings, and future policy prospects of the 2005 UNESCO Convention on the Protection and Promotion of the Diversity of Cultural Expressions, arguing that the Convention is not broad enough to confront the challenges concerning human rights, sustainability, and cultural diversity as a whole.

India, China and Globalization

The Emerging Superpowers and the Future of Economic Development

Piya Mahtaney, Indian Merchants’ Chamber, Mumbai, India

'To write a book on such a well-trodden and controversial subject as globalization and successfully differentiate it from other works is no small feat. That is precisely what Mahtaney accomplishes in this comparative study of India’s and China’s economic development and its implications for future development of other emerging economies... Mahtaney makes illuminating distinctions among growth, increase in per capita real GDP, and development, and raises important issues concerning the future of globalization and economic integration.' - CHOICE

The momentum of economic progress in India and China will bring about the next major shift in geopolitics. This book analyzes the economic experience of both countries in the context of development and globalization, and offers insights that could be crucial for development thinking.

Infrastructure and Poverty in Sub-Saharan Africa

Antonio Estache, ECARES, Université Libre de Bruxelles, Belgium, Quentin Wodon, World Bank, USA

"This book is the most comprehensive book so far on infrastructure and the poor in Sub-Saharan Africa. It combines accessible theoretical reasoning with a firm grip on empirical evidence. After reviewing the role of infrastructure on growth, it documents access rate to infrastructure services, affordability, quality, and costs. It also discusses the scope for reforms to improve the support to the poor. The book is simultaneously rigorous and easy to read. This is an essential contribution for anyone who is interested in development economics and poverty alleviation."

- Emmanuelle Auriol, Professor of Economics, Toulouse School of Economics, France

Infrastructure and Poverty in Sub-Saharan Africa analyzes the extent to which, how, and how fast the infrastructure needs of the poor have been met in Sub-Saharan Africa (SSA).

Mixed Methods Research in Poverty and Vulnerability
Sharing Ideas and Learning Lessons

Edited by Keetie Roelen, University of Sussex, UK, Laura Camfield, University of East Anglia, UK

This timely and empirically rich volume adds to the growing chorus of voices in favour of mixed method research on poverty and vulnerability. The authors add new elements to the existing literature, neatly framed in terms of ‘credibility, complexity and usability’, and make a compelling case for the value-added of such approaches. This book should be consulted widely by academics, development practitioners and policy makers engaged with these issues.

Nevertheless, gaps and challenges remain. This volume shares experiences from research in developed and developing country contexts on how mixed methods approaches can make research more credible, usable and responsive to complexity.

Edited by Hiroshi Kato, Japan International Cooperation Agency Research Institute (JICA-RI), Japan, John Page, Brookings Institution, USA, Yasutami Shimomura, Hosei University, Japan

Once the world’s largest ODA provider, contemporary Japan seems much less visible in international development. However, this book demonstrates that Japan, with its own aid philosophy, experiences, and models of aid, has ample lessons to offer to the international community as the latter seeks new paradigms of development cooperation.

The Remaking of the Mining Industry

David Humphreys, Petropavlovsk PLC, London, UK

The industrialisation of China prompted the biggest commodity boom of modern times. Soaring prices gave rise to talk of a commodity super cycle and induced a wave of resource nationalism. The author, who was chief economist at two of the world’s largest mining companies, describes how this resulted in a transformation of the global mining industry.

The Revival, Legitimization, and Development of Private Enterprise in China

Empowering State Capitalism

Zongshi Chen, Zhejiang University, China

The Revival, Legitimization, and Development of Private Enterprise in China illustrates the decline of the state-encouraged revival and legitimation of private enterprises in 1980s China. Chen argues that the rapid growth of private enterprises strengthened the fiscal power of the state, leading the Chinese government to take an increasingly interventionist stance.

Social Capital in Development Planning

Linking the Actors

Raffaella V. Nanetti, University of Illinois at Chicago, USA, Catalina Holguin, Economic and Social Cohesion Laboratory, UK

"In this important book, Nanetti and Holguin start out by distinguishing between growth and development within territorial communities. They then demonstrate, through careful theoretical analysis and revealing case studies, how nurturing social capital promotes development, defined as the realization of social justice." - Susan S. Fainstein, Senior Research Fellow, Harvard University Graduate School of Design, USA

"This is a timely and important volume. In an era of rising social inequalities and climate change, finding an alternative to the growth models inherited from the past may be the most pressing issue of our time. The authors of this volume demonstrate that building social capital is the path forward that best addresses the challenges of the twenty-first century." - Dennis R. Judd, Professor and Interim Head, University of Illinois at Chicago, USA

Social Capital in Development Planning updates and advances the debate on social capital, through the analysis of the application of the concept of social capital to programs for sustainable and smart socio-economic development; empirical findings; and a new paradigm for development planning.

Social Justice and Deep Participation

Theory and Practice for the 21st Century

Paula Donnelly Roark, Writer and Activist, USA

Knowing what deep participation is, and how it works, can make a critical difference in solving 21st century economic, political, and social problems. This book provides a new approach to hands-on change and begins formulation of a participatory social theory promising greater prosperity and justice for all.

Social Relations in Human and Societal Development

Edited by Charis Psaltis, University of Cyprus, Alex Gillespie, London School of Economics, UK, Anne-Nelly Perret-Clermont, Université de Neuchâtel, Switzerland

Social interaction is the engine which drives an individual’s psychological development and it can create changes on all levels of society. Social Relations in Human and Societal Development includes essays by internationally renowned academics from a range of disciplines including social psychology, international relations and child development.

Mapping India’s Capitalism
Old and New Regions
Edited by Elisabetta Basile, University of Rome ‘La Sapienza’, Italy; Barbara Harriss-White, University of Oxford, UK; Christine Luttringer, Swiss Federal Institute of Technology, Switzerland
‘A refreshing and original contribution to the literature on contemporary India. As promised, it explores the spatial dimensions of capital accumulation. But it does much more. It tells us about diversities of agrarian change; it explores relatively less known geographies of gender, caste, poverty, urban spaces and emerging inequalities.’ - Surinder S. Jodhka, Jawaharlal Nehru University, India
India’s capitalist transformation has been spatially uneven. Combining several analytical approaches, the contributors identify socio-spatial regularities – some contiguous with state boundaries, some transcending states and some contained within them – while providing evidence about the spatial unevenness of India’s capitalist development.

Disability and Poverty in the Global South
Renegotiating Development in Guatemala

Shaun Grech, The Critical Institute, Malta

‘In this paradigm-shifting text, Shaun Grech dislocates critical disability studies from its normative moorings in global North spaces and reconsiders how we might understand disability/ poverty, activism, belonging, mutuality and interdependence through reference to the global South. This book demands scholars and activists alike to think again about the place of disability.’ – Professor Dan Goodley, University of Sheffield, UK

Drawing from long term ethnographic work and practice in Guatemala, this incisive and interdisciplinary text brings in perspectives from critical disability studies, postcolonial theory and critical development to explore the various interactions and dynamics between disability and extreme poverty in rural areas.

Community Revival in the Wake of Disaster
Lessons in Local Entrepreneurship

Virgil Henry Storr, Mercatus Center, George Mason University, USA; Stefanie Haefele-Balch, Mercatus Center, George Mason University, USA, Laura E. Grube, Beloit College, USA

“Too often we look only to the government to help with disaster recovery when, as this excellent book reveals, the answer is already right in front of us. Using hundreds of interviews and months in the field after Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Sandy, the authors skillfully show us how entrepreneurs and local business people serve as change agents after crisis.” – Daniel P. Aldrich, Professor of Political Science, University Faculty Scholar, and Director of Asian Studies, Purdue University, USA; author of Building Resilience: Social Capital in Post-Disaster Recovery

Explodes the role of entrepreneurs in bringing about community rebound after disasters, with particular attention to recovery efforts following Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Sandy.

Economic Development Strategies and the Evolution of Violence in Latin America

Edited by William Ascher, Claremont McKenna College, USA, Natalia Mirovitskaya, Duke Center for International Development, Duke University, USA

"In broad terms, this collection is the first I have seen to systematically address the relationship between post-Cold War development patterns and the use of violence in Latin America. This is a difficult topic— it was so much easier to address related questions during the Cold War, when a bipolar view of the world was so often superimposed on Latin America. Today, however, two decades after the disappearance of the Soviet Union, we know there are far more than two sides to almost every important question of Latin American politics and Latin American development patterns in particular. With standout contributions, this book will be of interest to students of comparative politics, both of violence in a cross-national context and of more traditional Latin American politics." - Lars Schoultz, William Rand Kenan, Jr., Professor of Political Science, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, USA

This collection of case studies explains the pathways between development patterns, economic strategies, and violence in Latin America.

The Securitization of Foreign Aid

Edited by Stephen Brown, University of Ottawa, Canada, Jörm Grävingholt, German Development Institute, Germany

Security concerns increasingly influence foreign aid: how Western countries give aid, to whom and why. With contributions from experts in the field, this book examines the impact of security issues on six of the world’s largest aid donors, as well as on key crosscutting issues such as gender equality and climate change.

3D Printing for Development in the Global South

The 3D4D Challenge

Thomas Birtchnell, University of Wollongong, Australia, William Hoyle, Techttrade, UK

Birtchnell and Hoyle explore how printers, designs, materials and infrastructures all need to be ‘just right’ in order for meaningful social change to happen with appropriate scale. The 3D4D Challenge suggests 3D printing could reach scale in the Global South, even perhaps having the same impact as the mobile phone or microfinance in development.

Dollarisation of Poverty

Rethinking Poverty Beyond 2015

Palash Kamruzzaman, University of Bath, UK

Dollarisation of Poverty offers a critical analysis on employing a universal understanding of poverty and suggests ways forward for poverty reduction for developing countries in a post-2015 era. Taking specific country-contexts into account, the author argues that national poverty lines should be the benchmark for future anti-poverty policies.

Gendered Impact of Globalization of Higher Education
Promoting Human Development in India

Geeta Nair, H.R. College of Commerce & Economics, India

'This is an illuminating study of the role of education, particularly higher education, in gender equity and justice in a rapidly globalizing world. Geeta Nair’s careful empirical analysis brings out many important relations that deserve much greater attention than they have received so far. A good addition to a literature with theoretical interest and practical relevance.' - Amartya Sen, Thomas W. Lamont University Professor, and Professor of Economics and Philosophy, at Harvard University, USA

Gendered Impact of Globalization of Higher Education explores the significant role education plays in the promotion of human development and gender equality in India, situating this progression in relation to developed nations, the other BRIC countries and the ongoing attainment of the Millennium Development Goals.

Migration and Worker Fatalities Abroad

AKM Ahsan Ullah, Universiti Brunei Darussalam, Brunei; Mallik Hossain, Jagannath University, Bangladesh; Kazi Maruful Islam, University of Dhaka, Bangladesh

Lessons in Sustainable Development from Malaysia and Indonesia

Sara Hsu, State University of New York at New Platz, USA; Nathan Perry, Colorado Mesa University, USA

Hsu and Perry provide a concise overview of sustainable development in the nations, make policy recommendations for each country, and discuss sustainable development experiments in both countries.

The Political Economy of Sustainable Development

Dirk Jacob Wolfson, Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands

'A very well-thought-out, interesting and novel examination of the subject.' – Eugene Nulman, University of Kent, UK

'This interdisciplinary and non-technical introduction nests economic efficiency, fairness and ecological principles in a political economy framework. Situational contracts’ meld these principles to yield understanding of how democratic societies seek a sustainable future. Such contracts reflect both political constraints and proxy information on citizen preferences; they lead to policy outcomes which mesh concerns with efficiency, justice, and “planners’ preferences”. This book provides unique and valuable insights into the complex process in which environmental policy is formed.' - Robert Haveman, University of Wisconsin-Madison, USA

The author shows how sustainable development may be organized, valued and distributed by introducing situational contracting as an interactive and contextual mode of governance. Situational contracting provides a roadmap for where we want to go, serving the prevailing ideology in implementing the trade between efficiency and fairness.

Pursuing Alternative Development
Indigenous People, Ethnic Organization and Agency

M. Saiful Islam, University of Dhaka, Bangladesh

“This book will definitely enliven the debate about alternative ways of ‘development’. The case study presented shows convincingly that underprivileged groups can develop themselves rather than being developed by others. Overall this is a useful text for academics, students and practitioners.” - Hans-Dieter Evers, Emeritus Professor of Development Studies, University of Bonn, Germany

“This book offers both an anthropological critique of development, and also a pioneering ethnography of unusual indigenous organization working to improve the life conditions of its people. It is a superb ethnography and a well-written text, bearing a powerful moral message.” - Gordon Mathews, Professor and Chair of the Department of Anthropology, The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

Drawing upon ethnographic descriptions of three grassroots ethnic organizations, which work for indigenous peoples in promoting economic livelihood, education and strive for social justice, this book investigates the possibilities and challenges of alternative development.

ECONOMIC AND BUSINESS THEORY

Are Markets Moral?

Edited by Edward Skidelsky, University of Exeter, UK, Robert Skidelsky, University of Warwick, UK

This volume scrutinizes the functionality of a capitalist market society, which is usually praised for the efficiency and dynamism, rather than for its morality. It addresses the dualism behind capitalism’s encouragement of greed, which is usually considered to be a moral failing, while also being a driver behind economic growth.

Contents: Introduction * Session 1 – Restraining Instinctuality; Robert Skidelsky, Perry Anderson and Robert Frank * Session 2 – Equality and Corruption; Steven Lukes and Glen Newey * Session 3 – The Moral Limits of Markets; Edward Skidelsky and John Milbank * Session 4 – The Meaning of Money; Felix Martin, Geoffrey Hosking and David Graeber

The Economics of Paradise

On the Onset of Modernity in Antiquity

Sigmund Wagner-Tsukamoto, School of Management, University of Leicester, UK

The Economics of Paradise searches for the origins of modern thinking in one of the best-known stories of our cultural heritage. By applying institutional and constitutional economics to biblical interpretation, it uses new approach to reconstruct the Paradise story. The author challenges the old conceptual dualism between economics and theology/philosophy.

An Economic Interpretation of Linear Programming

A Revised and Updated Edition

Quirino Paris, University of California, Davis, USA

“An Economic Interpretation of Linear Programming is a serious and meaningful revision of an already excellent book. It provides a refreshing and thoroughly unique perspective on linear programming that is imbued with Paris’ characteristic passion for economics in general, and duality and symmetry in particular - beautiful is the word that comes to mind!” - Michael R. Caputo, Professor of Economics, University of Central Florida, USA

“Paris’ articulation of economic interpretations for mathematical structures is his forte and this book exceeded my expectations. The primary struggle for my students is not mastery of technical aspects but rather the application of those concepts to economic problems. This book’s presentation of opportunity cost, relevant examples, and practice exercises will greatly assist students in making these connections. Furthermore, it is accomplished without sacrificing rigor.” - Ken Foster, Professor and Head of the Department of Agricultural Economics, Purdue University, USA

A tried and true manual for students and scholars of economists to understand linear programming.

Growth, Employment, Inequality, and the Environment

Unity of Knowledge in Economics: Volume II

Adolfo Figueroa, Pontifical Catholic University of Peru

"This is a challenging and fearless book – the outcome of an entire scholarly life. Figueroa builds a theory of the capitalist system, relating first and third worlds, which focuses on power as the exogenous variable. He throws down the gauntlet to the neo-classical paradigm. With careful methodology he derives the conclusion that given present power structures, output growth creates over time social disorder, inequality and environmental degradation. The solution, he argues, lies in true ‘citizens’ democracy’. " - Rosemary Thorp, Emeritus Fellow, Oxford University, UK

Growth, Employment, Inequality, and the Environment deals with the fundamental economic problems of our time: employment, inequality, the environment, and quality of life. These exciting new volumes are the first of their kind in which these problems are analyzed using a unified theory framework.

Hayek’s Modern Family

Classical Liberalism and the Evolution of Social Institutions

Steven Horwitz, St. Lawrence University, USA

"Horwitz has been developing his ideas about classical liberalism and the family for decades. The wait is now over, and it has been well worth it. This highly original and well argued book provides a formidable challenge to all those whose knee-jerk reaction is that a free market society must be bad for families. Let the debates begin!" - Bruce Caldwell, Professor and Director, Center for the History of Political Economy, Duke University, USA

"Thank goodness for an economist who understands that all parenting decisions involve risks and rewards, and who defends those of us who refuse to parent from a place of total risk aversion. What a refreshing outlook!" - Lenore Skenazy, author of Free-Range Kids, blog and book

Hayek’s Modern Family offers a classical liberal theory of the family, taking Hayekian social theory as the main analytical framework.

Value Creation, Reporting, and Signaling for Human Capital and Human Assets

Building the Foundation for a Multi-Disciplinary, Multi-Level Theory

Edited by Meir Russ, University of Wisconsin-Greenbay, USA

“Human capital is admittedly the most important resource for all types of organizations and, indeed, for economic development of countries. And, although, much research has focused on human capital, more is needed. This volume extends the frontiers of our knowledge of human capital by providing a multidisciplinary and multilevel view of this critical resource. I commend this volume to all scholars interested in the advancement of our understanding of human capital.” - Michael Hitt, Joe B. Foster ’56 Chair in Business Leadership, Department of Management, Texas A&M University

The issues discussed in this book are the building blocks needed for an interdisciplinary theoretical framework that will allow for value creation and reporting by the most important assets organizations have, its human capital.

Time Series Econometrics
A Concise Introduction

Terence C. Mills, Department of Economics, Loughborough University, UK

Time Series Econometrics provides an introductory treatment of time series econometrics, a subject that is of key importance to both students and practitioners of economics. It contains material that any serious student of economics and finance should be acquainted with if they are seeking to gain an understanding of a real functioning economy.

Redesigning Manufacturing
Reimagining the Business of Making in the UK

Michael Beverland, School of Management, University of Bath, UK, Beverley Nielsen, Birmingham City University, UK, Vicky Pryce, Centre for Economics and Business Research, UK

Manufacturing in the UK has an image problem. Although this image problem is more fiction than fact, it nonetheless has an impact on the sector’s ability to attract staff, capital, and policy interest. This book redresses this situation by focusing on the real successes of the sector and the strategies used by makers to achieve sustainable results.

The Economic Psychology of Incentives
New Design Principles for Executive Pay

Alexander Pepper, LSE, UK

The Economic Psychology of Incentives proposes a revised theory of agency, drawing on ideas from behavioural economics and built on more robust assumptions about human behaviour than the standard principal-agent model. The book proposes new design principles for executive pay, but also explains the difficulties in changing current executive pay practices.

Hayek: A Collaborative Biography
Part V, Hayek’s Great Society of Free Men

Edited by Robert Leeson, Stanford University, USA

F.A. Hayek (1899-1992) was a Nobel Prize winning economist, famous for his defense against classical liberalism. This volume examines Hayek’s relationship with the Chicago School, and looks at The Constitution of Liberty - Hayek’s vision of the wealthy. The study highlights the paradox that arises from the spontaneous order of trade unions.

John Maynard Keynes and the Economy of Trust
The Relevance of the Keynesian Social Thought in a Global Society

Donatella Padua, Università per Stranieri di Perugia, Italy

“Padua has asked the question: How is it possible to build value via trust? She has answered through the construction of a compelling argument for the creation of a balanced global economy and a fairer distribution of wealth based upon that elusive quality of trust.” - Garry Titterton, former Visiting Professor, Executive MBA Course, Tongji University, Shanghai, Co-author Brand Storming.

Why does trust collapse in times of crisis? And when, instead, does it become a driver of growth, generating value? Through a sociological interpretation of the thought of John Maynard Keynes, Padua introduces the innovative concepts of Economy of Trust and Nominal Economy within the context of the 2008 financial crisis.

India’s Reluctant Urbanization

Thinking Beyond

Ranesh Nair, Independent scholar, India, Piyush Tiwari, Faculty of Architecture, Building and Planning, University of Melbourne, Australia, Pavan Ankanapalli, IDFC Institute, India, Jyoti Rao, Amity University, India, Pritika Hingorani, IDFC, India, Manisha Gulati, WWF, South Africa

Through a close examination of India’s policies, economic system, social systems and politics, this study explores the numerous perspectives and debates on India’s urbanization. The authors link contemporary urban issues with emerging challenges associated with policies and city management.

Nature and Wealth

Overcoming Environmental Scarcity and Inequality

Edward B. Barbier, University of Wyoming, USA

‘In an enormously ambitious and significant research programme, Professor Barbier has been reworking economic history from the deep past to the present by including environmental assets in societal accounts. In this book he adds to that account of history by providing quantitative estimates of the place of those assets in a society’s wealth. This is work of a very high order and insight.’ – Sir Partha Dasgupta, Frank Ramsey Professor Emeritus of Economics, University of Cambridge, UK

‘Ed Barbier has masterfully brought together environmental degradation and wealth inequality into a coherent and practical development strategy. He spells out how pricing nature and targeting inefficient natural resource use can be combined with human capital investment to tackle poverty in developing countries. It is a blueprint for a sustainable future.’ – Dieter Helm, author of Natural Capital – Valuing the Planet

Drawing on historical and contemporary evidence, this book argues that growing environmental degradation and wealth inequality are linked to how nature is exploited to create economic wealth. Ending the under-pricing of natural capital and insufficient human capital accumulation is essential to overcoming structural imbalance in modern economies.

Nitrogen and Climate Change

An Explosive Story

Dave Reay, University of Edinburgh, UK

The world is changing. Human population is surging towards 10 billion, food, water, climate and energy security are all at risk. Nitrogen could be our life raft in this global ‘perfect storm’. Get it right and it can help to feed billions, fuel our cars and put a dent in global warming. Get it wrong and it will make things a whole lot worse.

Rice Production Structure and Policy Effects in Japan

Quantitative Investigations

Yoshimi Kuroda, Kyushu Sangyo (Industrial) University, Japan

“This book has full of useful information about the structure of Japanese agriculture, its transformation, and obstacles to achieve it. That is why I strongly recommend policymakers, governmental agricultural officers, agricultural specialists, and agricultural economists, including graduate students, to read this book, learn lessons from the Japanese experience, and draw socially and globally useful policy implications.” - Professor Keijiro Otsuka, National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies, Tokyo, Japan

“This book is a must-read for researchers seeking to understand diverse aspects of and approaches to the study of Japanese agricultural structure, particularly in the rice sector.” - Professor Masayoshi Honma, Department of Agricultural and Resource Economics, The University of Tokyo, Japan

Kuroda uses quantitative measures to investigate the rice production structure and effects of agricultural policies in Japan over the second half of the 20th century. Almost all policies have played negative roles in transferring paddy lands from the study of Japanese agriculture, its transformation, and obstacles to achieve it. That is why I strongly recommend policymakers, governmental agricultural officers, agricultural specialists, and agricultural economists, including graduate students, to read this book, learn lessons from the Japanese experience, and draw socially and globally useful policy implications.”

Truth Wars

The Politics of Climate Change, Military Intervention and Financial Crisis

Peter Lee, RAF College Cranwell, University of Portsmouth, UK

‘Focusing upon the three great global political crises of our time – military intervention, the financial meltdown, and the actual ‘meltdown’ threatened by climate change – the author provides a probing and deeply unsettling assessment of the manner in which competing and often illusory truth-claims are fashioned by political leaders, governments, international institutions and demagogues only in order to re-shape the world in their image, and to gain control over the lives of others. Our fundamental assumptions about what Truth is, and what it means, are put to test in this eloquent, articulate, and provocative work.’ - George R. Lucas Jr., U.S. Naval Postgraduate School, USA

We live in an age of crises that are global in scale and potentially apocalyptic in severity, affecting the lives of millions – billions – of people. Peter Lee examines the struggle for truth at the heart of these crises to show how political leaders attempt to shape individual behavior, attitudes and identity.

Decarbonization in the European Union
Internal Policies and External Strategies

Edited by Claire Dupont, Vrije Universiteit Brussel, Belgium, Sebastian Oberthür, Vrije Universiteit Brussel (VUBrussel), Belgium

The authors examine how far internal policies in the European Union move towards the objective of reducing greenhouse gas emissions in the EU by 80-95 per cent by 2050, and how or whether the EU's 2050 objective to 'decarbonise' could affect the EU's relations with a number of external energy partners.

Energy, Climate and the Environment

The Growth of Biofuels in the 21st Century
Policy Drivers and Market Challenges

Robert Ackrill, Nottingham Business School, Nottingham Trent University, UK, Adrian Kay, Crawford School of Public Policy, the Australian National University, Australia

The Growth of Biofuels in the 21st Century provides a timely and insightful analysis of the expansion of biofuels production and use in recent years. Drawing on interviews with key policy insiders, Ackrill and Kay show how biofuel policies have been motivated by concerns over climate change, energy security and rural development.

Energy, Climate and the Environment

Renewable Energy Transformation or Fossil Fuel Backlash
Vested Interests in the Political Economy

Espen Moe, Norwegian University of Science and Technology, Norway

Renewable energy is rising within an energy system dominated by powerful vested energy interests in fossil fuels, nuclear and electric utilities. Analyzing renewables in six very different countries, the author argues that it is the extent to which states have controlled these vested interests that determines the success or failure of renewables.

Energy, Climate and the Environment
Finance and the Macroeconomics of Environmental Policies

Edited by Philip Arestis, Cambridge Centre for Economic and Public Policy, University of Cambridge, UK, and Professor of Economics, University of the Basque Country, Spain, Malcolm Sawyer, University of Leeds, UK

This volume examines current and previous environmental policies, and suggests alternative strategies for the future. Addressing resource depletion and climate change are pressing priorities for modern economies. Planning energy infrastructure projects is complicated by uncertainty, as such clear government policies have a crucial role to play.

Contents:
1. The Absence of Environmental Issues in the New Consensus Macroeconomics is only One of Numerous Criticisms; Philip Arestis and Ana Rosa González-Martínez
2. The Neoliberal Trajectory, the Great Recession and Sustainable Development; Alessandro Vercelli
3. The Macroeconomics and Financial System Requirements for a Sustainable Future; Giuseppe Fontana and Malcolm Sawyer
4. Financing Energy Infrastructure; Michelle Baddeley
5. The Effects of the Financial System and Financial Crises on Global Growth and the Environment; Annela Anger and Terry Barker
6. Dualisms in the Finance-Economy-Climate Nexus: An Exploratory Essay Drawing on Derridean Thinking; S. Şerban Scrieciu
7. The ‘Dark Matter’ in the Search for Sustainable Growth: Energy, Innovation and the Financially Paradoxical Role of Climate Confidence; Jean-Charles Hourcade, Michael Grubb and Aurélie Méjean
8. On Climate Change and Institutions; Ikerne del Valle and Kepa Astorkiza

China’s Renewable Energy Revolution

John A. Mathews, Macquarie University, Australia, Hao Tan, University of Newcastle, Australia

The authors suggest that China’s renewable energy system, the largest in the world, will quickly supersede the black energy system that has powered the country’s rapid rise as workshop of the world – and for reasons that have more to do with fixing environmental pollution and enhancing energy security than with curbing carbon emissions.

Contents:
1. Introduction
2. Major trends in China’s energy revolution
3. China’s energy producing and using industries - industrial dynamics
4. Transformation of the electric power sector - creating a 21st century infrastructure
5. China’s energy firms - new Dragon Multinationals
6. Global impact of China’s energy revolution

Eco-Cities and the Transition to Low Carbon Economies

Federico Caprotti, King’s College London, UK

The author examines the two most advanced eco-city projects: the Sino-Singapore Tianjin Eco-City in China, and Masdar City in Abu Dhabi. These are the most notable attempts at building new eco-cities to both face up to the ‘crises’ of the modern world and to use the city as an engine for transition to a low-carbon economy.

Contents:
1. Eco-Cities in the Age of Crisis
2. Experimental Eco-Cities in China
3. Peak Oil and Eco-Urbanism in Abu Dhabi
4. Conclusion: Re-Thinking the Eco-City?
The Biological Bases of Economic Behaviour
A Concise Introduction

David McFarland, Balliol College, University of Oxford, UK

The micro-economic behaviour typical of humans is also found in other animals, suggesting that some basic biological features underpin the behaviour of many species, and that there are some problems with traditional micro-economic theory.

Dance, Consumerism, and Spirituality

C. S. Walter, Independent Scholar, USA

"As a clergyperson deeply interested in today's postmodern spiritualities, I found this to be a very helpful book, particularly in my work with teenagers and young adults. C. S. Walter's mystical womanist perspective provides new insights into the interactions between spirituality, the arts, electronic media, and consumer culture. Her 'theidoeconomics' shows how we all might become more fully human." - Rev. Dan Harper, Associate Minister, Religious Education, Unitarian Universalist Church, Palo Alto, USA

Dance has proliferated in movies, television, Internet, and retailspaces while the spiritual power of dance has also been linked with mass consumption. Walter marries the cultural studies of dance and the religious aspects of dance in an exploration of consumption rituals, including rituals of being persuaded to buy products that include dance.

The Economics of Multitasking

Edited by Charlene M. Kalenkoski, Texas Tech University, USA, Gigi Foster, University of New South Wales, Australia

"The layered rhythms of daily life make it remarkably difficult to measure time use in a clear and consistent way. The essays in this volume go beyond conventional measures of multitasking to adapt and improve the neoclassical economic theory of time allocation. They also yield valuable insights into issues of survey design and interpretation, particularly relevant to the definition of time devoted to the care of children and needy adults. These are important contributions to the burgeoning field of time-use analysis." - Nancy Folbre, Director, Program on Gender and Care Work, Political Economy Research Institute, University of Massachusetts Amherst, USA

This first-of-its-kind volume explores the economic implications of multitasking, with a particular focus on the multitasking of non-market activities such as child care, household work, and leisure. The Economics of Multitasking, particularly in unpaid household production, challenges the treatment of this work in mainstream economics. This book uses best practice economic techniques to open a new space for the analysis of unpaid work, here focused on children and their care. In doing this it breaks a silence and opens many new opportunities for the use of these tools across household and unpaid activities." - Marilyn Waring, Professor of Public Policy, Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand

Social Capital and Risk Sharing
An Islamic Finance Paradigm

Adam Ng, INCEIF - The Global University of Islamic Finance, Malaysia, Abbas Mirakhor, INCEIF - Global University of Islamic Finance, Malaysia, Mansor H. Ibrahim, INCEIF - The Global University of Islamic Finance, Malaysia

“Social Capital and Risk Sharing is a book in which Adam Ng, Abbas Mirakhor and Mansor H. Ibrahim articulate a new business model that brings social capital and risk sharing into renewed focus to create the demonstration effect and to have a global impact. As debates and discussions continue in the battle for the soul of capitalism, their work is a call for action for both Islamic financial institutions and conventional finance to come together and build a fairer, just and sustainable economic society.” - Iqbal Khan, Chief Executive Officer, Fajr Capital, United Arab Emirates

This exciting new addition to Palgrave Studies in Islamic Banking, Finance, and Economics argues that social capital can facilitate rule-compliance and cooperation in the sharing of risk in financial and economic activities.

Why the Social Sciences Matter

Edited by Jonathan Michie, University of Oxford, UK, Cary Cooper, Lancaster University, UK

Published with the support of the Academy for Social Sciences, this volume provides an illuminating look at topics of concern to everyone at the beginning of the twenty-first century. Leading social scientists tackle complex questions such as immigration, unemployment, climate change, war, banks in trouble, and an ageing population.

Women of The Street

Why Female Money Managers Generate Higher Returns (and How You Can Too)

Meredith A. Jones, USA

“Warren Buffett has rightly bemoaned the lack of women in the upper echelons of business. The financial markets are no different. Meredith Jones makes a compelling case as to why the financial markets need far more cognitive and behavioral diversity in general. This book will help us get there. It is a treasure trove of insights, experiences and anecdotes from women investors who beat the market, offering valuable lessons to both women and men.” - Guy Spier, Founder of Aquamarine Fund

Integrating Human Capital with Human Development

The Path to a More Productive and Humane Economy

John F. Tomer, Manhattan College, USA

“Integrating Human Capital with Human Development is another very insightful and readable book from Tomer. He enhances the traditional concept of human capital to better integrate highly significant, sociological, psychological, and neurological variables. This opens the door to a more flexible, enriching, and realistic understanding of human decision-making, without throwing out the conventional human capital baby with the bathwater.” - Morris Altman, Dean, and Professor of Behavioural and Institutional Economics, Newcastle Business School, University of Newcastle, Australia; editor, Review of Behavioral Economics

Tomer considers recently accumulated knowledge related to the human brain’s functioning and development to better understand the relationship between human capital and human development in successful economies.

Great Thinkers in Economics

Arthur Cecil Pigou

Nahid Aslanbeigui, Department of Economics and Finance, Monmouth College, New Jersey, USA, Gay Oakes, Monmouth College, New Jersey, USA

The British economist Arthur Cecil Pigou (1877-59) reconceptualized economics as a theory of economic welfare and a logic of policy analysis. Misconceptions of his work abound. This book, an essay in demystification and the first reading of the entire Pigouvian oeuvre, stresses his pragmatic and historicist premises.

Trade and Technology Networks in the Chinese Textile Industry

Opening Up Before the Reform

Carles Brasc Broggi, Universitat Oberta de Catalunya, Spain

Trade and technology networks developed in the Yangzi Delta in the early twentieth century. The complexities of the machinery trade and the fragmentation of the Chinese market drove them to rely on foreign trade, surviving in wartime Shanghai and in postwar Hong Kong. These networks were the pioneers of the reform and opening up process in China.

Paid Work Beyond Pension Age
Comparative Perspectives

Edited by Simone Scherger, University of Bremen, Germany

“This volume is an excellent addition to the literature on extending working lives, tackling a neglected and under-researched group of older workers who challenge our traditional conceptualisations and understandings of retirement. The book provides a rich picture of the diversity of circumstances and motivations that lead to work after pension age and the characteristics of such work in a number of different countries.” - Sarah Vickerstaff, University of Kent, UK

“In many countries, the number of people working beyond pension age is increasing. This volume investigates this trend in seven different countries, examining the contexts of this development and the consequences of the shifting relationship between work and retirement.

The Post-Fordist Sexual Contract
Working and Living in Contingency

Edited by Lisa Adkins, University of Newcastle, Australia, Maryanne Deer, University of Newcastle, Australia

“What does the sexual contract look like in times of contingency and precarity? How is contemporary post-Fordist capitalism rewriting the regulatory ideals of earlier eras? These are questions that the contributors set out to answer in this challenging and provocative collection which ranges from migrant workers to mommy bloggers and the affective attachments of academics. A fascinating and compelling collection that will be a must-read for anyone interested in work and life today.” - Rosalind Gill, City University, UK

This collection analyzes shifting relationships between gender and labour in post-Fordist times. Contingency creates a sexual contract in which attachments to work, mothering, entrepreneurship and investor subjectivity are the new regulatory ideals for women over a range of working arrangements, and across classed and raced dimensions.

Toward a Future Beyond Employment

Edited by Mehmet Cangul, International Monetary Fund, USA

“In this engaging book, Cangul challenges us to examine our modern preoccupation with work, a crucially important topic in these troubling economic times. Cangul makes a persuasive case that we can be wealthier and happier if we start thinking of work as just one possible use of our time rather than our reason for living.” - Mark D. White, Chair and Professor, Department of Philosophy, College of Staten Island/CUNY, USA; author, The Manipulation of Choice: Ethics and Libertarian Paternalism

“Cangul offers truly seminal ideas about life in a world that is eliminating jobs at a mind-boggling place. As the vortex of technological breakthroughs relentlessly speeds up, old paradigms crumble and take with them the binding mythologies that offer the comfort of stability. This insightful and challenging book addresses the coming world of diminished hours of work which will inevitably present workers in the West with the challenge of filling those hours with still undiscovered activities. This important book should be read by the policy makers who will guide our adjustment to those new activities.” - Joseph Dillon Davey, Professor, Rowan University, USA

Toward a Future Beyond Employment proposes that as poor nations move to the emerging stage and as emerging economies become advanced, advanced economies are transitioning to a stage of their own, to a type of post-employment economy where society works less, consumes less, but instead has more time.

Digital Labour and Prosumer Capitalism
The US Matrix

Edited by Olivier Frayasé, Paris-Sorbonne University, France, Mathieu O’Neill, University of Canberra, Australia

“This book will be of great interest to historians of the United States as they explore the cultural transformations of the digital age.” - Andrew Diamond, Paris-Sorbonne University, France

In the digital age tasks are increasingly modularised and consumers are increasingly becoming producers. Replacing digital labour and prosumption within an American context and the wider political economy, this volume presents a critical account of the forces which shape contemporary subjects, networks, and labour practices.

Modern Money Theory
A Primer on Macroeconomics for Sovereign Monetary Systems, Second Edition
2nd edition

L. Randall Wray, University of Missouri-Kansas City, USA

‘This book paves the way for another revolution in macroeconomics. Wray shows us how an economy with modern money works and, more importantly, how it can be used to lift us to a more prosperous tomorrow.’ – Stephanie Kelton, University of Missouri-Kansas City

‘Wray debunks so many of the destructive beliefs that have contributed to our current economic and social malaise. This is a primer that should not only become mandatory reading for students of economics, but any policy maker who truly wants to deal with the grave disasters engendered from years of `reading from the wrong playbook’.” – Marshall Auerback, Director of the Economists for Peace and Security (epsusa.org) and a research associate at the Levy Institute

This second edition explores how `money works’ in the modern economy and synthesises the key principles of Modern Money Theory, exploring macro accounting, currency regimes and exchange rates in both the USA and developing nations.

China’s Economic Rise and Its Global Impact

Ken Moak, Capilano University, Canada, Miles W.N. Lee, China Development Institute, China

“Some books on China might concentrate or focus more on ideology rather than on the policy formulating mechanism in a more neutral way. This book is one of the few by westerners that looks at China from a more objective perspective, away from the pure political ideology.” – Qian Jin, Former Vice-President, Xihua University, China

Through a thorough analysis of China’s recent history and economic development process, the authors of this book seek to explain the causes of China’s economic rise and its impact on the rest of the world.

Economic and Financial Crises
A New Macroeconomic Analysis

Alvaro Cencini, University of Lugano, Switzerland, Sergio Rossi, University of Fribourg, Switzerland

Economic and Financial Crises deals with the structural origins of economic and financial crises. It explains that both economic theories and policies need to be grounded on a monetary macroeconomic analysis of the working of domestic and international economies. The volume outlines reform proposals to make sure that banking activities respect the nature of money.

Asymmetric Demography and the Global Economy

Asymmetric Demography and the Global Economy contributes to our understanding of why the demographic transition matters to domestic macroeconomics and global capital movements.

Macroeconomics
Fruitful Economics
Papers in honor of and by Jean-Paul Fitoussi

Edited by Eloi Laurent, OFCE, Sciences Po, Paris, France, Jacques Le Cachex, OFCE, Paris, France

This volume is both a tribute to and study of the French economist Jean-Paul Fitoussi. Fitoussi’s pluralistic scholarship has shaped modern macroeconomics, political economy, economics of inequality and, more recently, the economics of sustainability.

International Perspectives on Financing Higher Education

Edited by Josef C. Brada, Arizona State University, USA, Wojciech Bienkowski, Lazarski University, Poland, Masaaki Kuboniva, Hitotsubashi University, Japan

Higher education is increasingly important to the labor market success of individuals and the prosperity of nations, yet, as this book shows, public funding for higher education is declining. It presents innovative approaches to increasing funding for universities through closer ties with business and through privatization of universities.

Macroeconomic Variables and Security Prices in India during the Liberalized Period

Tarak Nath Sahu, Vidyasagar University, India

‘In this interesting scholarly work, Dr. Tarak Nath Sahu has nicely explored and established the influence of macroeconomic variables on stock performance. His argument pushes investors and market analysts to evaluate macro variables from a new perspective.’ - T.P. Ghosh, Professor of Finance, Institute of Management Technology, Dubai, UAE

This work attempts to explain, in the Indian context, the effect of the relationship between macroeconomic variables and stock prices. Not only does the work provide relevant and detailed analysis, it also makes policy recommendations and highlights the applications of its findings. Overall, this is an insightful work which will help investors and policymakers make better decisions.’ - Sankarshan Basu, Indian Institute of Management Bangalore, India

‘An excellent contribution to finance and towards building a cogent understanding of the Indian market. I found this volume informative, easy to assimilate, and thoroughly founded upon robust research. I believe it will dispel some misconceptions about the liberalization era’s impact on the Indian capital markets.’ – Stuart Locke, University of Waikato, New Zealand, and Institute of Public Enterprises, Hyderabad, India

The liberalization and globalization of the Indian economy has made India more vulnerable to macro issues. This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the dynamic relationship between macroeconomic variables and stock prices in India. The research findings and policy implications discussed here may also be relevant for other emerging economies.

Criminal Capital
How the Finance Industry Facilitates Crime

Stephen Platt, Stephen Platt and Associates LLP

"Stephen is a leader in financial crime writing. This book will catapult your understanding of how criminals compromise financial markets." — Robert Mazur, Former Federal Agent and Author of The Infiltrator

"A great read for anybody who wants to learn more about how criminals abuse the global financial system." — Joseph Pistone, Author of Donnie Brasco: My Undercover Life in the Mafia

"Criminal Capital offers a compelling, concerning, and clear view of the ways that financial institutions tacitly enable crime, and challenges both banks and regulators to stop the madness." — Carole Switzer, Co-Founder and President of the Open Compliance and Ethics Group

Criminal Capital is an engaging but authoritative account of how financial structures and products can and are being used to evade proper scrutiny and enable criminal activity and what can be done about it. Based on the analysis of the financial methods that are frequently used by criminals, it deals with the widespread abuse of financial systems.

Finance-Led Capitalism
Shadow Banking, Re-Regulation, and the Future of Global Markets

Robert Guttmann, Hofstra University, USA

‘Professor Guttmann’s essay Finance-Led Capitalism provides a brilliant and clear account of the dramatic impact of financialization on the US and the world economy. This original and highly readable book takes us into the fields of financial instability, shadow banking, and the new paths of finance. The author makes a convincing case for a comprehensive deregulation of finance and provides a critical analysis of ongoing reforms, which present a challenge for banks and public policy makers alike.’ — Professor Dominique Philipon, Paris Nord University

In Finance-Led Capitalism, bestselling author and economist Robert Guttmann provides a new conceptual framework to assess the dominant role of modern finance within the workings of our contemporary economic system. This lively and provocative read will challenge some of the core beliefs about modern finance and the world economy.

The International Handbook of Public Financial Management

Edited by Richard Allen, University of South Wales, UK, Richard Hemming, Duke Center for International Development, Duke University, USA, Barry Potter, IMF, USA

‘The Handbook is a welcome addition to the literature on public finance, not least because it draws on multiple disciplines in the social sciences to provide a rigorous and up-to-date analysis of all facets of this important subject. As such it will surely prove to be an invaluable resource for both academics and practitioners of public finance’ – EMMANUEL TUMUSIIME-MUTEBILE, Governor of the Bank of Uganda

The International Handbook of Public Financial Management is essential reading for governmental policy-makers, and practitioners and consultants working in this field, whose importance has been highlighted by the global financial crisis. It is a primary source for academics and students of economics, public finance, accountancy and public policy.

Market Liquidity Risk

Implications for Asset Pricing, Risk Management, and Financial Regulation

Andria van der Merwe, Compass Lexecon and IIT Stuart School of Business, USA

'Dr. Van Der Merwe’s book is an excellent and comprehensive discussion of the nature and drivers of market liquidity risk and its impact on financial asset prices. The book seamlessly integrates theory and references to the academic literature with reviews of empirical evidence and practical applications. Market practitioners should find this book invaluable both as an introduction to the topic and an accessible current review of academic research in this area.'—Christopher L. Culp, PhD, Johns Hopkins Institute of Applied Economics and Institut für Finanzmanagement, Universität Bern

Andria van der Merwe has produced a superb analysis of liquidity. Not only does she explain why ‘liquidity’ is a much more profound concept than most of us might initially think, but also how our institutions create (and inhibit) it. Bottom line: liquidity is valuable and, as with all items of value, it is costly to obtain.’—Jonathan I. Arnold, PhD, Formerly Chief Economist, Office of the New York Attorney General

Andria van der Merwe provides a thorough guide to the critical tools needed to navigate liquidity markets and value security pricing in the presence of market frictions and information asymmetries. This is essential reading for anyone with a current or future interest in liquidity models, market structures, and trading mechanisms.

Public Credit Rating Agencies

Increasing Capital Investment and Lending Stability in Volatile Markets

Susan K. Schroeder, University of Sydney, Australia

"The momentum of investment and financing decisions has become increasingly subject to the influence of credit rating agencies. Yet the differing methods they deploy to determine credit worthiness assessments, the variability in their determinations and, above all, the tendencies to overstate risk should prompt serious questions about the influence these agencies have in shaping the dynamics of contemporary capitalism. In this provocative study, Schroeder exposes the potentially damaging consequences of this privileged role. In mounting a powerful case for moderating the influence of credit rating agencies, Schroeder builds upon the heterodox economic tradition to advocate for the establishment of a public agency that would enhance the integrity of credit rating assessments and focus on delivering investment stability." —Stuart Rosewarne, Associate Professor of Political Economy, University of Sydney, Australia

"Private security rating agencies are paid by firms wanting to sell securities; understandably they rate securities highly. In this thoughtful book, Schroeder proposes public rating agencies as a policy solution. She argues cogently that this would eliminate conflicts of interest, provide investors with more useful information, and help stabilize the economy." —Steven Pressman, Professor of Economics and Finance, Monmouth University, USA

Public Credit Rating Agencies argues for the creation of national public credit rating agencies, offering the first in-depth discussion of its implied role and function operating alongside private agencies.

Private Equity Investing in Emerging Markets
Opportunities for Value Creation

Roger Leeds, John Hopkins University, USA

‘For anyone with more than a fleeting interest in private equity in emerging markets, Roger Leeds’ book is an invaluable resource. Private equity is so fundamentally different in emerging economies that it barely merits the same nomenclature. Leeds makes this clear and provides readers a roadmap for taking advantage of the opportunities these differences present. As he rightly points out, ‘the case for private equity is even more compelling in developing countries, where alternative sources of capital and business expertise are relatively scarce.’ He relays his insights through aptly chosen case studies’ – Diana Noble, CEO, CDC

Drawing on the author’s four decades of experience as a practitioner and academician working with private equity investors, entrepreneurs, and policymakers in over 100 developing countries around the world, this book uses anecdotes and case studies to illustrate and reinforce the key arguments for private equity investment in emerging economies.

The Inexorable Evolution of Financialisation

Financial Crises in Emerging Markets

Domnna M. Michailidou, School of Public Policy, University College London/Judge Business School, University of Cambridge Economic Consultant, OECD, UK

The Inexorable Evolution of Financialisation explores the consequences of the inexorable evolution of financialisation through examining the origins of financial crises in three very different emerging economies in the 1990s - Mexico, Brazil and Korea. It is demonstrated that countries suffered from crisis as an unavoidable outcome of their financialisation.

Inflation and the Making of Australian Macroeconomic Policy, 1945–85

Michael Beggs, University of Sydney, Australia

In the decades after World War II, inflation undermined the aspiration for full employment in Australia. This book tells the story of how the Australian state was shaped by the confrontation with monetary instability: a pre-history of neoliberalism.

International Financial Institutions and Their Challenges

A Global Guide for Future Methods

Felix I. Lessambo, St. John’s University, USA

“Lessambo has produced a highly readable book on the important topic of Financial Institutions and Their Challenges. As the impacts of the 2008 financial crisis continue to be felt, making sense of the role of financial institutions remains key. This book will serve as an excellent introduction.” - Jean-Marc Coicaud, Professor and Director of the Division of Global Affairs, Rutgers University, USA; Global Ethics Fellow, Carnegie Council for Ethics in International Affairs, USA

Lessambo analyzes the claimed purposes of international financial institutions, their failures, and the causes of those failures, and then proposes solutions for the future.

Manias, Panics, and Crashes

A History of Financial Crises, Seventh Edition

7th edition

Robert Z. Aliber, USA Charles P. Kindleberger, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, USA

“The turmoil of 2007–8 reminded us only too painfully that financial crises are not confined to distant times and places. This latest edition of Charlie Kindleberger’s classic study of man’s serial financial follies, updated by Robert Aliber, brings the story right up to the present. A fount of wisdom not only for students of finance and economics, but also for central bankers and financial market practitioners.” - Professor Sir Charles Bean, The London School of Economics, UK

“Since its original publication, this has been one of my indispensable books. It served to help me grasp the gravity of financial crises that afflicted my country and guided me, hopefully, to recommend and take better policy decisions. It has also been an essential teaching tool. For example, on 15 September 2008 I asked my students to read at once several chapters so that they could better understand the events that started to unfold that morning. I welcome with enthusiasm this new edition!” - Ernesto Zedillo Ponce de León, Director Yale Center for the Study of Globalization; Former President of Mexico

This seventh edition of an investment classic has been thoroughly revised and expanded following the latest crises to hit international markets. Renowned economist Robert Z. Aliber introduces the concept that global financial crises in recent years are not independent events, but symptomatic of an inherent instability in the international system.

Reforms in China’s Monetary Policy
A Frontbencher’s Perspective

Sun Guofeng, People’s Bank of China

‘Sun Guofeng’s long experience at the People’s Bank of China has given him a unique vantage point from which to analyze the evolution of Chinese monetary policy over the past two decades. He brings his experience and insight to bear in analyzing central banking developments in China, making Reforms in China’s Monetary Policy: A Frontbencher’s Perspective a key resource for those interested in understanding the reforms that have reshaped China’s monetary policy.’ - Carl Walsh, Distinguished Professor of Economics, University of California, Santa Cruz, USA

‘An extended career in the forefront of monetary policy operations of China’s central bank has endowed Sun Guofeng with voracious and logical thinking by which he proposes his innovative theory about money creation and develops many unique views on China’s economic and financial issues and monetary policy practice based on this theory. This book giving us an all-round perspective into Sun’s monetary theory, China’s monetary policy and reform of exchange rate regime will inspire and reward every reader interested in the economic and financial developments of China.’ - Yi Gang, Deputy Governor of People’s Bank of China

China’s financial reforms have undergone a large-scale transformation over the past several years. This book aims to outline the structure and current features of China’s monetary policy, drawing upon the author’s years of experience working within the People’s Bank of China and insider’s view of the decision-making process.

Social and Psychological Dimensions of Personal Debt and the Debt Industry

Edited by Serdar M. Degirmencioğlu, Doğuş University, Turkey, Carl Walker, University of Brighton, UK

An understanding of personal debt requires an understanding of the complex social systems that produce poverty. By drawing upon international perspectives, this book investigates why more and more people are in debt, why it is causing so much mental distress and exactly who is benefiting from what has become the world’s number one growth industry.

Revolutionizing Retail
Workers, Political Action, and Social Change

Kendra Coulter, Brock University, Canada

‘This book is a timely and important contribution to our understanding of work and social change. Kendra Coulter thoughtfully explores the possibility of a revolution in retail that transforms the lives of retail workers, and helps build a more just and equitable society. Revolutionizing Retail is essential reading for anyone interested in labor, gender, sociology, anthropology, or in the need not just for jobs, but for good jobs.’ - Elaine Bernard, Executive Director, Labor and Worklife Program, Harvard Law School, USA

There is a modest but growing body of scholarly literature on experiences of retail work, with only a handful of studies existing on retail organizing. Before Revolutionizing Retail, no scholar had captured or analyzed the breadth of political action being pursued in this crucial economic sector.

Basic Income Guarantee

Your Right to Economic Security

Allan Sheehan, US Basic Income Guarantee Network

“This book is a great idea - brilliantly stated. Some may think it’s ultra-liberal, as they did when I proposed a similar idea in 1972. I see it as true conservatism - the right of income for all. Americans sufficient for food, shelter, and basic necessities. Or, what Jefferson referred to as life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.” - U.S. Senator George McGovern, 1972 Democratic Party Presidential Candidate

“Sheehan and I are as far apart on political philosophy and the causes of the nation’s current mess as two people can be, but we both think that a basic income guarantee has to be part of the solution. That says something about the potential of this important idea whose time, as we both hope, is coming. Basic Income Guarantee will help make that happen.” - Charles Murray, author of In Our Hands: A Plan to Replace the Welfare State

Basic Income Guarantee, an updated version of Sheehan’s original 1983 work, is a comprehensive look at a Basic Income Guarantee (BIG) and what it would mean for the United States today.

The Next Financial Crisis and How to Save Capitalism

Hossein Askari, George Washington University, USA, Abbas Mirakhor, INCEIF - Global University of Islamic Finance, Malaysia

“...This highly readable book is a welcome addition to the study of the causes and consequences of financial crises. The authors have advocated risk-sharing contracts for a number of years, and this, their latest contribution, is a very interesting and stimulating addition.” - Vittorio Corbo, Professor of Economics, Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile, Senior Research Associate of the Centro de Estudios Públicos, Chile, and former President of the Central Bank of Chile

The financialization of the economy has brought a number of interrelated problems which have contributed to growing income and wealth inequality. Askari and Mirakhor assert that it is time to make a bold change by putting our financial house in order and on a better path, advocating for a fundamental reform of the financial system.

Abstract Market Theory

Jon Roffe, University of Melbourne, Australia

'A remarkable and vitally important book that puts Deleuze and Guattari in conversation with the latest advances in pricing and probability theory, notably Ayache and Meillassoux. Roffe’s development of an immanent philosophical theory of the market is commendable and unique, and now stands as a necessary point of reference for future research.' - Eugene Holland, Ohio State University, USA

Financial markets play a huge role in society but theoretical reflections on what constitutes these markets are scarce. Drawing on sources in philosophy, finance, the history of modern mathematics, sociology and anthropology, Abstract Market Theory elaborates a new philosophy of the market in order to redress this gap between reality and theory.

Economic Foundations for Creative Ageing Policy, Volume I

Context and Considerations

Andrzej Klimczuk, Warsaw School of Economics, Poland

“After all the complaints that ageing populations will create an economic burden, Klimczuk’s concept of creative ageing policy brings fresh air to the discussion. It is time to explore all the resources that ageing people can provide to local and national economies with their consuming, competencies, experiences, and volunteering. Longevity brings new cohorts of active and fit older people seeking meaningful roles for the betterment of the world.” – Vappu Taipale, Professor and Honorary President, International Society for Gerontechnology; Chair, Union for Senior Services, Finland

Deepening Neoliberalism, Austerity, and Crisis

Europe’s Treasure Ireland

Julien Mercille, University College Dublin, Ireland, Enda Murphy, University College Dublin

‘Essential reading for those who might believe that neoliberalism is just an economic doctrine. This meticulously researched and engagingly written book of Ireland’s social and economic predicament conclusively shows that neoliberalism is first and foremost a class project.’ – Erik Swyngedouw, Manchester University, UK

‘Essential reading for anyone interested in understanding the nefarious grip of neoliberalism ... A powerful wake-up call to all who would seek to oppose the class-war policies which neoliberal ideologues have unleashed upon us.’ – Andrew Maclean, Trinity College Dublin, Ireland

From bank bailouts to austerity, Europe’s and Ireland’s response to the economic crisis has been engineered specifically to shift the burden of paying for the crisis onto ordinary citizens while investors, financiers, bankers and the privileged are protected. The authors expose the class-based nature of Ireland’s crisis resolution.

The Economics of Schooling in a Divided Society

The Case for Shared Education

Vani K. Borooah, University of Ulster, Northern Ireland, UK, Colin Knox, University Of Ulster, Northern Ireland, UK

Countries that have suffered ethnic or religious conflict and become segregated societies reflect these divisions in education provision for their children. Northern Ireland is a case study in point where a parallel system of schools offers education in Catholic maintained schools and Protestant (de facto) controlled schools. While school segregation is the most obvious manifestation of Northern Ireland’s fractured society, there are more important issues of ‘educational inequality’ with respect to schools and pupils. This book analyses three issues in some detail: segregation, educational performance and inequality in educational outcomes between schools and between pupils from deprived and affluent family backgrounds. Thus far public policies to tackle these issues have been met with limited success. The authors consider an alternative approach, which they term ‘shared education’, the aim of which is to dismantle some of the barriers between maintained and controlled schools.

The Political Economy of Korea

Transition, Transformation and Turnaround

Jitendra Uttam, Jawaharlal Nehru University, India

Korea’s twin transitions – agrarian to industrial and industrial to post-industrial – transformed the country’s political economy. Moving away from the traditional focus on aspects such as market, culture, and colonialism, the author argues that Korea’s ‘second state’ was revitalized through the ‘people’s movement’ and ‘citizens movement’.

(Re)Discovering University Autonomy

The Global Market Paradox of Stakeholder and Educational Values in Higher Education

Edited by Romeo V. Turcan, Department of Business and Management, Aalborg University, Denmark. John E. Reilly, University of Kent, UK; Larisa Bugaian, Technical University of Moldova

“...the demands on universities—and the threats to university autonomy—have never been greater than they are today. Drawing on contributions from European and North American writers, this thought-provoking book demonstrates the scale of the challenge faced by universities and develops a model of institutional university autonomy that befits the modern sector.” - Sara Carter, Order of the British Empire, Professor and Associate Deputy Principal, University of Strathclyde, UK

(Re)Discovering University Autonomy has far reaching implications for leaders and managers, researchers, educators, practitioners, and policy makers by addressing modern challenges to university autonomy in Europe and beyond in a new and innovative way.

Social Injustice

Vittorio Bufacchi, Department of Philosophy, University College, Cork, Ireland

“...[a] thought-provoking and compelling contribution to political philosophy, one that should be read by scholars of any discipline who are interested in social injustice.” - Siobhan O’Sullivan, Mary Immaculate College, University of Limerick, Irish Journal of Public Policy

“This essay offers an excellent example of what philosophical reflection can gain by taking seriously the relevant empirical information.” - Maria Paola Ferretti, Technische Universität Darmstadt, International Review of Sociology

The idea of social injustice is pivotal to much contemporary moral and political philosophy. Starting from a comprehensive and engaging account of the idea of social injustice, this book covers a whole range of issues, including distributive justice, exploitation, torture, moral motivations, democratic theory, voting behaviour and market socialism.

The Political Economy of Imperial Relations
Britain, the Sterling Area, and Malaya 1945–1960

Alex Sutton, University of St Andrews, UK

“This study combines a broad approach to modern imperialism with detailed, archive-based analysis of the Malayan case. By doing so it offers important new insights into the complex relations between financial and political power in the dying days of the formal British Empire” – Jim Tomlinson, University of Glasgow, UK

“Accumulate, accumulate! That is Moses and the prophets”, relays Karl Marx in Capital. Alex Sutton reveals new theoretical and historical insights about capital accumulation, the state and class struggle in this fascinating book. It is set to reinvigorate a new wave of contentions within and beyond Marxist understandings of the political economy of imperialism that should be read far and wide.” – Adam David Morton, University of Sydney, UK

The Political Economy of Imperial Relations offers a much needed historical and theoretical intervention into the relationship between Britain and Malaya after the Second World War. It challenges existing accounts and details a strong continuity in this relationship from 1945 until 1960.

Alliance Capitalism, Innovation and the Chinese State
The Global Wireless Sector

Victoria Higgins, Monash University, Australia

Alliance Capitalism, Innovation and the Chinese State analyses how key ‘systems integration’ technical pressures, and the increasing use of collaborative alliances for market and product development are impacting on the socio–technical policy directives of Chinese State leaders and the strategic behaviour of key Chinese high–technology firms operating in the global wireless sector.

The Substance of EU Democracy Promotion Concepts and Cases

Edited by Anne Wetzel, University of Mannheim, Germany, Jan Orbie, Ghent University, Belgium

The Substance of EU Democracy Promotion investigates the substance of the European Union’s (EU) democracy promotion policy. It focuses on elections, civil and political rights, horizontal accountability, effective power to govern, stateness, state administrative capacity, civil society, and socio-economic context as components of embedded liberal democracy.

Contents: PART I: ALTERNATIVE REFLECTIONS ON THE EU AS A LIBERAL DEMOCRACY PROMOTER * PART II: COUNTRY CHAPTERS * PART III: CONCLUSIONS

Antitrust Institutions and Policies in the Globalising Economy

Eleonora Poli, City Political Economy Research Centre (CITYPERC), City University London, UK

“Poli has generated a welcome contribution to the study of global anti-trust policy formation. Crafting an institutional IPE interpretation, the book weaves together a convincing narrative of how American ideas have been disseminated internationally and internalised domestically – without losing sight of how national specificities mediate such institutionalisation, indeed neoliberalisation, processes.” – Thomas Marois, SOAS, UK

Eleonora Poli analyses how ideas and material interests have come to determine the evolution of antitrust policies in the USA, EU, Japan and BRICS. She argues that three major economic crises together with market globalisation have changed governments’ perceptions of market competition, giving rise to a neo-liberal global phase.

Beyond Free Trade
Alternative Approaches to Trade, Politics and Power

Edited by Kate Ervine, Saint Mary's University, Canada, Gavin Fridell, Saint Mary's University, Canada

The world of trade is changing rapidly, from the ‘rise of the South’ to the growth of unconventional projects like fair trade and carbon trading. Beyond Free Trade advances alternative ways for understanding these new dynamics, based on historical, political, or sociological methods that go beyond the limitations of conventional trade economics.

Brazil’s Emerging Role in Global Governance
Health, Food Security and Bioenergy

Markus Fraundorfer, German Institute of Global and Area Studies (GIGA), Germany

The author examines Brazil’s emerging role as an important actor in various sectors of global governance. By exploring how Brazil’s exercise of power developed over the last decade in the sectors of health, food security and bioenergy, this book sheds light on the power strategies of an emerging country from the global south.

The BRICs, US ‘Decline’ and Global Transformations

Ray Kiely, Queen Mary University of London, UK

“Ray Kiely has produced the most thoughtful, balanced and perceptive book yet on the limitations of the rapid capitalist development that has taken in the BRICs and some other countries of the global south in recent decades. A must read.” - Leo Panitch, York University, Canada

The author examines the rise of the BRICs and the supposed decline of the United States. Focusing on the boom years from 1992 to 2007, and the crisis years after 2008, he argues that there are limits to the rise of the former and that the extent of US decline has been greatly exaggerated.

EU Leadership in Energy and Environmental Governance
Global and Local Challenges and Responses

Edited by Jakub M. Godzimirski, Norwegian Institute of International Affairs (NUIP), Norway

“This book has the merit of being very timely, and very ambitious, as it analyses the launch of the EU Energy Union, the total revamping of energy markets with the emergence of new producers, consumers, and forms of energy, and the EU’s role in the changing geopolitics of energy.” - Anne Marie Le Gloannec, CERI-Sciences Po, France

This edited collection focuses on the impact of the changing global distribution of power on the EU’s energy policy and ability to project its approach to energy-related issues abroad. It maps the EU’s changing position on global energy, the impact of various factors on its energy policy, and its relations with Russia, China, the USA and Brazil.

Gangster States
Organized Crime, Kleptocracy and Political Collapse

Katherine Hirschfeld, University of Oklahoma, USA

“This book has the merit of being very timely, and very ambitious, as it analyses the launch of the EU Energy Union, the total revamping of energy markets with the emergence of new producers, consumers, and forms of energy, and the EU’s role in the changing geopolitics of energy.” - Anne Marie Le Gloannec, CERI-Sciences Po, France

The author draws on behavioral ecology to predict the evolution of organized crime in unregulated systems of exchange and the further development of racketeer economies into unstable kleptocratic states. The result is a new model that explains the expansion and contraction of political-economic complexity in prehistoric and contemporary societies.

Global Banking Regulation After the Great Recession: Basel III, FSB, G20

Richard Münch, University of Bamberg, Germany

“Contributions that utilize classical and modern sociological theory are still a rare breed within the burgeoning literature on development and global inequality. In this groundbreaking book, Richard Münch builds on Durkheim’s classical approach for the sociological exploration of a global division of labour. Going beyond the usual confines of international political economy, he forcefully demonstrates what it means to think about development and inequality within the broader social context of a world society.” - Matthias Albert, Universität Bielefeld, Germany

Global free trade is one of the most controversial phenomena of our time. Richard Münch offers a new theory of global labour division to explain deeper transformations in the production and distribution of wealth brought about by global free trade. He then carries out and analyzes empirical investigations based on this theory.

The Political Economy of Labour Market Reforms
Greece, Turkey and the Global Economic Crisis

Edited by Özgün Sarmmenhmet Duman, Ipek University, Turkey

‘A sophisticated and highly original contribution to an important debate made all the more important by the crisis. Though the argument is likely to prove controversial, this book deserves to be widely discussed.’ — Professor Colin Hay, Sciences Po, Paris

Duman examines the transition from Keynesianism to monetarism by presenting an analysis of labour market reforms in Greece and Turkey - questioning the role of class struggle on the implementation process. She also scrutinises the influence of the global economic crisis and the execution of reform policies in these two countries.

Power and Imbalances in the Global Monetary System

A Comparative Capitalism Perspective

Mattias Vermeiren, Ghent University, Belgium

‘Vermeiren’s creative analysis calls attention to the domestic institutional sources of international economic imbalances involving US, China and the Eurozone. His book shows very effectively why international monetary specialists and scholars of comparative capitalism should talk to each other much more extensively.’ – Eric Helleiner, University of Waterloo, Canada

The author examines the indirect macroeconomic roots of the global financial crisis and Eurozone debt crisis: the escalation of global trade imbalances between the US and China and regional trade imbalances in the Eurozone. He provides new insights into the sources and dynamics of power and instability in the contemporary global monetary system.

Social Justice in the Globalization of Production
Labor, Gender, and the Environment Nexus

Md Saidul Islam, Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, Md Ismail Hossain, Shahjalal University of Science and Technology, Bangladesh

"A panoramic review of the pathologies of development in the success cases in the Global South. Gloomy but necessary reading." - Samuel Cohn, Texas A & M University, USA

"This is, in my view, the first extensive and truly rigorous analysis of the critical nexus among labor, gender and the environment in the neoliberal globalization today. Deeply disturbing, yet a ray of hope towards social justice; essential reading for all who care about people and the planet." - Syed Serajul Islam, Lakehead University, Canada

Md Saidul Islam and Md Ismail Hossain investigate how neoliberal globalization generates unique conditions, contradictions, and confrontations in labor, gender and environmental relations; and how a broader global social justice can mitigate the tensions and improve the conditions.

States and Regions in the Post-Neoliberal World

Gerard Strange, University of Lincoln, UK

‘Critical, wide ranging and incisive, this is one of the best introductions to development and the evolving global political and economic order currently available.' — Mark Beeson, Murdoch University, Australia

The author examines new development strategies in the context of globalisation and the crisis of the Washington Consensus. Critiquing both protectionism and the free market he points to the influence and evolution of Keynesian ideas for the management and stabilisation of development in an era marked by the unravelling of neoliberal prosperity.

Trade Diplomacy Transformed
Why Trade Matters for Global Prosperity

Geoffrey Allen Pigman, University of Pretoria, South Africa

“This book is great reading for everyone interested in the history of trade policy, the changing role of diplomacy and the great transformations shaping global commerce.” - Manfred Elsig, University of Bern, Switzerland

This is the first book to tell the story of the diplomacy that has made the international trading system what it is today. It reveals how three major transformations over the past two centuries have shaped the way goods, services, capital and labour cross borders, as buyers and sellers meet in the global marketplace.

The Political Economy of Microfinance
Financializing Poverty

Philip Mader, Institute of Development Studies, UK

‘Microfinance is financialization dressed up as charity: a pathway for global finance to penetrate the capitalist periphery. In this richly documented book, Mader dispels the myth that debt can move the poor out of poverty. Far from an economics of liberation, microfinance is part of a politics of repression: it extracts more wealth than it creates, and reinforces economic dependence.’ - Wolfgang Streeck, Emeritus Professor, Max Planck Institute for the Study of Societies, Germany

According to the author, rather than alleviating poverty, microfinance financialises poverty. By indebting poor people in the Global South, it drives financial expansion and opens new lands of opportunity for the crisis-ridden global capital markets. This book raises fundamental concerns about this widely-celebrated tool for social development.

Economic Equality and Direct Democracy in Ancient Athens

Larry Patriquin, Department of Sociology, Social Welfare, and Criminal Justice Studies, Nipissing University, Ontario, Canada

This book argues that ancient democracy did not stop at the door of economic democracy, and that ancient Athens has much to tell us about the relationship between political equality and economic equality. Athenian democracy rested on a foundation of general economic equality, which enabled citizens to challenge their exclusion from politics.

National Policy in a Global Economy
How Government can Improve Living Standards and Balance the Books

Ian Budge, Department of Government, University of Essex, UK, Sarah Birch, School of Social and Political Sciences, University of Glasgow, UK

“This is a hugely timely book. All countries need to face up to the implications of racing globalisation without losing sight of the crucial things national governments can do to improve their societies and economies. This is a fascinating primer for our times.” - Lord Hennessy, Baron Hennessy of Nympsfield

This study offers an analysis of the UK’s current economic policy options and a plan for improving life for ordinary citizens via a sensible and realistic economic policy, which political parties could immediately adopt to make life better for all.

Mobile Commons, Migrant Digitalities and the Right to the City

Nicos Trimitrikiotis, University of Nicosia, Cyprus, Dimitris Parsanoglou, Pontiwn University of Social and Political Sciences, Greece, Vassilis Tsianos, University of Hamburg, Germany

Mobile Commons, Migrant Digitalities and the Right to the City examines the relationship between urban migrant movements, struggles and digitality which transforms public space and generates mobile commons. The authors explore heterogeneous digital forms in the context migration, border-crossing and transnational activism, displaying commonality patterns and inter-dependence.

Network Society and Future Scenarios for a Collaborative Economy

Vasilis Kostakis, Tallinn University of Technology, Estonia, Michel Bauwens, P2P Foundation, The Netherlands

Network Society and Future Scenarios for a Collaborative Economy builds on the idea that peer-to-peer infrastructures are gradually becoming the general conditions of work, economy, and society. Using a four-scenario approach, the authors seek to simplify possible outcomes and to explore relevant trajectories of the current techno-economic paradigm within and beyond capitalism.

Post-Conflict Syrian State and Nation Building

Economic and Political Development

Cenan Çakmak, Eskisehir Osmangazi University, Turkey, Murat Ustaoglu, Istanbul University, Turkey

‘A panoramic treatment of the difficulties that the future of Syria faces; unique in its solicitation of the opinions of some traditional opposition figures.’ - Mazen Hashem, Lecturer, California State University, Northridge, USA

Çakmak and Ustaoglu give with this amazing effort another example of what free people can provide. As a Syrian who is involved in the issue [of post-conflict state- and nation-building], I think it important that this research is put under the spotlight while the conflict still going on.’ - George Sabra, President, Syrian National Council, Turkey

Based on extensive field work involving the leading figures of the diverse Syrian National Coalition, an umbrella initiative of opposition groups fighting against the Assad regime, this study critically evaluates the challenges ahead as well as the inherent opportunities for the post-conflict era in Syria.

Policy Signals and Market Responses
A 50 Year History of Zambia’s Relationship with Foreign Capital

Stuart John Barton, University of Cambridge, UK

The study presents archival evidence to show how President Kaunda raised political and economic exclusivity in Zambia in the early years of Zambia’s independence, and how this retarded capital investment. Despite formal reforms and a new government, this institutional mechanism still dominates and constrains Zambia’s political economy today.

Agent-based Models of the Economy

Emerging Issues in Contemporary African Economies
Structure, Policy, and Sustainability

Steve Onyeiwu, Allegheny College, USA

“Oneyu has written an important book that captures the complexity and diversity of Africa while identifying some common lessons for development policy. Unlike other approaches, Onyeiwu’s evolutionary framework stresses the importance of contingency, path dependence, and institution building. If the countries of Africa heed Onyeiwu’s advice and learn from past mistakes and successes the continent’s future can be a bright one.” - John Gowdy, Professor of Economics and Administrative Head of the Department of Science and Technology Studies, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, USA

“Using an evolutionary analysis backed by solid empirical evidence, Onyeiwu painstakingly dissects one of the most fundamental questions on Africa today, which is whether the recent growth spurt in the continent can be sustained. The book meets the expectations of both experienced social scientists interested in Africa as well as readers seeking a friendly yet intellectually sound introduction to Africa’s past, recent, and prospective economic development. It is a unique resource for teaching African development.” - Léonce Ndikumana, Professor and Director of the African Development Policy Program, Political Economy Research Institute, University of Massachusetts Amherst, USA

Onyeiwu focuses on how events of the twenty-first century are shaping key sectors of African economies and societies. He suggests that, compared to East Asia and Latin America, Africa still has a long way to go, despite recent improvements in performance.

Japan’s Great Stagnation and Abenomics
Lessons for the World

Masazumi Wakatabe, Waseda University, Japan

“In this very good, thoughtful analysis focusing on Japan’s mediocre economic performance since 1990, Wakatabe stresses the context in which conflicts between a structured view and a macroeconomic view led to major macroeconomic policy mistakes. From this history, he derives monetary lessons for foreign policy makers. He then provides an interim evaluation of Abenomics.” - Hugh Patrick, Director, Center on Japanese Economy and Business, Columbia Business School, USA

Japan’s Great Stagnation and Abenomics chronicles Japan’s Great Stagnation and reveals the striking similarities of economic events and policies between the Great Stagnation and the current Great Recession. It also suggests possible dangers ahead and way-outs in the future.

Private Sector Development and Urbanization in China

Strategies for Widespread Growth

Zhikai Wang, Zhejiang University, China

"The book provides an important and original perspective and contribution to understanding the future of China by addressing two important issues and their mutual relation: local development and institutional change. Based on a sound knowledge of the Chinese economy and the features and experiences of local development in Zhejiang and Jiangsu, the book provides a novel perspective on what is at the basis of the Chinese economic success and how it could evolve." - Bruno Dallago, Professor, University of Trento, Italy

Given the reality of China’s economic development and urbanization, this book studies the development of the private sector and the process of regional urbanization in the Yangtze River Delta region to provide a path for new urbanization throughout China.

Sustainable Entrepreneurship in China

Ethics, Corporate Governance, and Institutional Reforms

Edited by Douglas Cumming, Schulich School of Business, York University, Canada, Michael Firth, Department of Finance and Insurance, Lingnan University, Hong Kong, Wenxuan Hou, The University of Edinburgh Business School, UK, Edward Lee, Manchester Business School, UK

“China’s economic reforms bred a new class of businesspeople who took advantage of the new commercial opportunities that arose. The next challenge is how to maintain the spirit of the early pioneers. This fascinating book details how sustainable entrepreneurial achievement can be gained and gives examples and cases of successful privately-run businesses that have stood the test of time." - Huiyao Wang, Director General, Center for China and Globalization, China; Counselor of the State Council, China

Sustainable Entrepreneurship in China provides empirical evidence and cutting-edge research into topical business ethics issues relating to entrepreneurship, corporate governance, and institutional reforms in China.

"An in-depth and insightful analysis of how Japanese reforms and deregulation have affected price discovery, liquidity, and risks in the stock market." - Ravi Jagannathan, Professor, Northwestern University, USA

Reform and Price Discovery at the Tokyo Stock Exchange analyzes the impact of the evolution of the Tokyo Stock Exchange (TSE), at the same time discussing reforms in stock trading by related accounting standards and legal regulations.

Building Confidence in East Asia

Maritime Conflicts, Interdependence and Asian Identity Thinking

Edited by Kazuhiko Togo, Institute of World Affairs, Kyoto Sangyo University, Japan, GVC Naikul, Jawaharlal Nehru University, India

"This volume’s focus on Asian history and perceptions is particularly important, in contrast to many analyses that look solely at the global security dynamics of the region. Under the co-editorship of Kazuhiko Togo, Japan’s premier scholar-diplomat, readers will understand the Japanese angle of Asian thinking on East Asian security issues." - Robert Dujarric, Director, Institute of Contemporary Asian Studies (ICAS), Temple University, Japan Campus

Conscious that trust deficit is a principal concern in East Asia, the book attempts to suggest ways to enhance confidence in certain key areas such as disputes in East and South China Seas, maritime CBMs, impact of economic interdependence on security, and issues concerning identity and values in Asian thinking.

Contents: PART I: EAST ASIA: GEOPOLITICAL AND HISTORICAL CONTEXT * PART II: MARITIME SECURITY: CRISIS MANAGEMENT AND ACCEPTABLE SOLUTION * PART III: INTERDEPENDENCE: EFFECT AND LIMITATION

Europe and the Financial Crisis
Edited by Leila Simona Talani, King’s College London, UK, Pompeo Della Posta, University of Pisa, Italy

"Six years into the global financial crisis Europe remains mired in stagnation and, throughout large areas of the periphery, actual depression. The EU itself confronts a fundamental crisis of identity. Once viewed as guarantors of the social market, its institutions now serve as key enforcers of global austerity. This volume provides a comprehensive overview of the crisis and its impact on Europe. The first part explores the impact on Europe’s key institutions, including the beleaguered euro. The second part focuses on individual countries, including both member-states of the EU and beyond."

This impressive collection is essential reading for those who wish to gain a comprehensive understanding of the contemporary European predicament.” - Alan Cafruny, Henry Platt Bristol Professor of International Affairs, Hamilton College, Clinton, USA

The global financial and economic crisis has brought about many effects that are still difficult to interpret univocally. This book studies the consequences of the crisis on Europe by examining the effects on the European institutional setup, governance and architecture and by studying in detail the different member countries.

Europe in Crisis
Problems, Challenges, and Alternative Perspectives

Edited by Aristidis Bitzenis, University of Macedonia, Greece, Nikolaos Karagiannis, Winston-Salem State University, USA, John Marangos, University of Macedonia, Greece

“This edited book compiles contributions from several of our finest economists. Their intention is to make creative use of well-established and highly sophisticated heterodox approaches for clarifying the multi-level and ongoing challenges plaguing European Union countries in the wake of the deep recession that got underway in 2008-9. This is economics presented as an especially thoughtful, brilliantly penetrating, and wonderfully insightful social science that clarifies and confronts extremely complex and pressing problems, while also offering plausible ways for European Union citizens to move forward toward a more promising future.” - John Hall, Professor of Economics, Portland State University, USA and Research Professor, Halle Institute for Economic Research, Germany

Europe in Crisis examines the current state of the European economy, society and polity, both on the theoretical and political levels, by placing special emphasis on its current crisis.

History, Time, and Economic Crisis in Central Greece

Daniel M. Knight, Durham University, UK, Robert Layton, Durham University, UK

“The Greek crisis has largely been addressed as a drama of loan repayments and fiery public protests. In this evocative ethnography, Knight captures the sense of temporal vertigo induced in an ordinary local community as assumptions about continuing prosperity give way to the apprehension that unfortunate past times are returning. This book is must reading for anyone wishing to understand the social experience and human cost of financial crisis.”
- Charles Stewart, University College London, UK, and author of Dreaming and Historical Consciousness in island Greece (2012)

History, Time, and Economic Crisis in Central Greece explores how the inhabitants of a Greek town face the devastating consequences of the worst economic crisis in living memory. Knight examines how the inhabitants draw on the past to contextualize their experiences and build strength that will enable them to overcome their suffering.

Quo Vadis

World Economy and Institutions at a Crossroads

Edited by Mario Baldassarri, University of Rome La Sapienza, Italy

This study addresses the two major challenges facing the global economy: globalization and the European structural crisis. In addition, it takes a closer look at the impact of this on the Italian economy. The findings reflect on the issue of long term growth and suggest ways in which to create sustainable financial conditions for the future.

Swedish Taxation

Developments since 1862

Edited by Magnus Henrekson, Research Institute of Industrial Economics, Sweden, Mikael Stenkula, Research Institute of Industrial Economics, Sweden

“This book characterizes the Swedish tax system and all its changes during a 150-year period. All important taxes and tax bases are covered: Labor, capital, wealth, inheritance and gift, goods and services, and finally real estate. The completeness and long historical coverage make this a unique set of information. I predict that this book will be the standard reference in all future research involving Swedish taxes.” - Lennart Flood, Professor, University of Gothenburg, Sweden

By taking the long view on the evolution of this country’s tax policies through the past few decades, Henrekson and Stenkula explain how Sweden developed the highest tax-to-GDP ratio in the world, until the beginning of the 2000s.

Contents:
1. Taxation in Sweden Since 1862: An Introduction and Overview, Magnus Henrekson, Mikael Stenkula
2. Swedish Labor Income Taxation (1862–2013), Gunnar Du Rietz, Dan Johansson, Mikael Stenkula
4. Swedish Inheritance and Gift Taxation (1885–2004), Gunnar Du Rietz, Mikael Stenkula
5. Swedish Wealth Taxation (1911–2007), Gunnar Du Rietz, Magnus Henrekson

Unequal Ageing in Europe

Women’s Independence and Pensions

Gianni Betti, University of Siena, Italy; Francesca Bettio, University of Siena, Italy, Thomas Georgiadis, Panteion University of Social and Political Sciences, Greece, Platon Tinios, Piraeus University, Greece

Unequal Ageing in Europe explores the gender pension gap across the 28 member states of the European Union, plus Iceland and Norway.

Contents:

Report on the State of the European Union

Is Europe Sustainable?

Jacques Le Cachex, OFCE, Paris, France, Eloi Laurent, OFCE, Sciences Po, Paris, France

This volume is the fourth instalment of the ‘Report on the state of the European Union’ series. Its shows that if the EU does not want to be ruled by crisis any longer, it must invest in sustainability, political, economic, social and environmental. Europe must turn this elusive and ever-threatening ‘crisis’ into a chosen and meaningful transition.

The Early Years
Child Well-Being and the Role of Public Policy

Inter-American Development Bank, The Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) is an international institution created in 1959 to foster economic and social development in Latin America and the Caribbean, Samuel Berlinski, Inter-American Development Bank, USA, Norbert Schady, Inter-American Development Bank

“The state’s recognition of human rights should be inescapable. Society and government share the responsibility of encouraging younger generations to reach their full potential. Children are the present but, above all, the future of a nation. It is they who will go on to become productive, healthy, and socially responsible citizens. Whether that actually happens depends on the decisions we make today.” - Tabaré Ramón Vázquez Rosas, President of Uruguay

Children are the future of Latin America and the Caribbean. This book analyses the development of children in the early years of their life and makes a compelling case for government intervention in what is instinctively a family affair.

This book is open access under a CC-IGO BY-NC-ND 3.0 IGO license.

Contents:
1. Raising Children: The Case for Government Intervention
2. A Report Card on Early Childhood Development
3. Family First
4. Daycare Services: It’s All about Quality
5. Early Schooling: Teachers Make the Difference
6. More Bang for the Buck: Investing in Early Childhood Development

Competition and Efficiency in the Mexican Banking Industry
Theory and Empirical Evidence

Sara G. Castellanos, Banco de México (Central Bank of Mexico), Mexico, Gustavo A. Del Ángel, Centro de Investigación y Docencia Económicas, Mexico, Jesús G. Garza-García, Itaú BBA, Mexico

“Competition and Efficiency in the Mexican Banking Industry provides an excellent insight into the productivity and performance features of a major emerging economy. The text will provide an invaluable resource for academics, policymakers, and practitioners interested in banking system reform.” - Philip Molyneux, Professor of Banking and Finance, Bangor University, United Kingdom

Competition and Efficiency in the Mexican Banking Industry contributes to the understanding of competition policy in the Mexican banking system and explains how levels of competition relate to the efficiency of banks.

Development Macroeconomics in Latin America and Mexico

ESSAYS ON MONETARY, EXCHANGE RATE, AND FISCAL POLICIES

Jaime Ros, Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México

The book is an attractive combination of theoretical and applied economics. It gives answers to two main questions: What explains the poor growth of the Latin American region over the past thirty years? What explains the diversity in the growth performances of individual Latin American countries in the same period? The legacy of the shocks of the 1980s interacting with the variety of macroeconomic policies (fiscal, monetary, and exchange) can provide satisfactory answers to both questions.* - Roberto Frenkel, Principal Research Associate at Centro de Estudios de Estado y Sociedad (CEDES); Honorary Professor, University of Buenos Aires, Argentina

Development Macroeconomics in Latin America and Mexico brings the attention of academics, practitioners, and policy makers to the neglected macroeconomic factors that can account for both the unsatisfactory average growth performance of Latin America and the diversity around this average.

Contents:
1. Institutional and Policy Convergence with Growth Divergence in Latin America
2. Productivity and Growth: Stylized Facts and Kaldor’s Laws in Latin America
3. The Real Exchange Rate, the Real Wage, and Growth: A Formal Analysis of the “Development Channel”
4. The Dutch Disease, the Staple Thesis and the Recent Natural Resource Boom in South America
5. Close to the Epicenter: Mexico and Canada During the Great Recession
6. Why Does the Mexican Economy Grow Less than that of Chile?

Globalization and Development

WHY EAST ASIA SURGED AHEAD AND LATIN AMERICA FELL BEHIND

Anthony Elson, Johns Hopkins University, USA

In this lucid, timely, and meticulously researched work, Elson bolsters his thesis by comparing the evolutions of six nations . . . The starkly different outcomes offer broad lessons for policymakers, which the author deftly outlines in 10 ‘propositions’ about the nature of successful economic development. Any economics text requires some intellectual stamina, but Elson does an admirable job of untangling the complex forces at work and presenting them in ways that laymen can understand. - Kirkus Reviews

Comparing the experience of East Asia and Latin America since the mid-1970s, Elson identifies the key internal factors common to each region which have allowed East Asia to take advantage of the trade, financial, and technological impact of a more globalized economy to support its development, while Latin America has not.

Contents:

Retirement on the Rocks
Why Americans Can’t Get Ahead and How New Savings Policies Can Help

Christian E. Weller, University of Massachusetts Boston, USA, and Center for American Progress, USA

"Few issues vex Americans more than inadequate retirement preparation. And few books provide a clearer picture of the problem - and what can be done to fix it - than Weller’s deeply researched analysis. Weller covers all the bases: the gaps in Social Security, the perils of employment-based accounts, the upside-down structure of tax breaks, and the huge financial barriers that stand between a risk-inuated middle class and sufficient retirement wealth. Perhaps most important, he lays out an ambitious but realistic path toward a stronger and fairer system that can provide the retirement security that so many Americans need. This is a must-read." - Jacob S. Hacker, Director of the Institution for Social and Policy Studies and Stanley B. Resor Professor of Political Science, Yale University, USA; author of The Great Risk Shift: The New Economic Insecurity and the Decline of the American Dream

In the US, retirement savings are low while risk exposure is high, thus dooming many retirees to a low standard of living. This book offers straightforward solutions to build real retirement security for American families.

Ten-Gallon Economy
Sizing Up Economic Growth in Texas

Edited by Pia M. Orrenius, Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, USA, Jesús Cañas, Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, USA, Michael Weiss, Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, USA

"We have a responsibility to turn our diversity into strength. The effective deployment of human capital has never offered greater promise than it does today. Ten-Gallon Economy outlines the choices we face and the rewards we can fully realize only by addressing our growing education needs. We must always evaluate what our real-world options are; change is the one constant. Ten-Gallon Economy’s research and analysis provides invaluable insight in these challenging times." - Renu Khator, Chancellor, University of Houston, USA

Ten Gallon Economy features new research on regional economic growth and some surprising findings on Texas’ unique tax and banking institutions; booming energy and export sectors; vibrant labor market; expanding demographics and human capital; and growing border economy.

The Welfare Trait
How State Benefits Affect Personality

Adam Perkins, King’s College London, UK

The Welfare Trait is electrifying – energising and shocking. Dr Perkins, an expert in the neurobiology of personality, argues that a generous welfare state can proliferate employment-resistant personality characteristics. The scientific discharge of this new theory is sure to spark high voltage debate – be prepared for a jolt! – Philip Corr, Professor of Psychology, City University, London, UK

Childhood disadvantage encourages the development of antisocial, ‘employment-resistant’ personality characteristics which harm life outcomes in adulthood. A welfare state therefore risks harming society by increasing the number of citizens who develop employment-resistant personality characteristics due to disadvantage during childhood.

A Basic Income Guarantee Solution for the Twenty-First Century

Mark Walker, New Mexico State University, USA

Free Money for All makes the case for a basic income guarantee of $10,000 per adult US citizen. The book shows that a basic income guarantee will increase gross national happiness and gross national freedom, while helping to mitigate some of the worst consequences of rising technological unemployment.

The Public Wealth of Nations
How Management of Public Assets Can Boost or Bust Economic Growth

Dag Detter, Whetstone Solutions AB, Sweden, Stefan Fölster, Reform Institute, Sweden

‘Public wealth is vast, but largely overlooked as an asset class. Improving its management is one of the most important economic issues of our time. Dag Detter and Stefan Fölster shed much light on the subject. One can only hope that their book will kick-start a debate that ushers in better stewardship of state land, buildings, utilities and other assets. The potential gains are enormous.’ – Matthew Valencia, The Economist

At a time of mistrust in traditional politics and weak public finances, Dag Detter and Stefan Fölster show politicians the way to demonstrate they are on the side of the people and to manage government assets better. There should be no excuse for those in power to dismiss these ideas. – Chris Giles, Economics Editor, Financial Times

Two leading economists argue that publicly owned commercial assets need to be taken out of the control of politicians. This radical, reforming book could lead to the creation of entirely new departments in the world’s major banks, improve the fabric of democratic institutions across the globe, and increase global living standards.

Debt, Democracy and the Welfare State
Are Modern Democracies Living on Borrowed Time and Money?

Rögnvaldur Hannesson, Norwegian School of Economics, Norway

Why is it that government debt in the developed world has risen to world war proportions in a time of peace? This can largely be attributed to governments maintaining welfare expenditures beyond what tax revenues allow. But will these governments refrain from doing what is necessary for economic growth for fear of losing their electorate?

Health and Prosperity
Efficient Health Systems for Thriving Nations in the 21st Century

Fabrice Murtin, OECD, France

'A great and timely contribution to our better understanding of the spectacular transition toward long and healthy lives and of its implications for productivity and well-being.' – Marc Fleurbaey, Robert E. Kuenne Professor, Princeton University, USA

'This book is a must read for any scholar or policy maker interested in growth and development.' – Philippe Aghion, Harvard University, USA

In this fascinating study, Murtin focuses on the relative importance of income and education in his exploration of the long-term health improvements which have occurred over the last two centuries.
